On the front cover: Wright State will be looking to two young athletes who had outstanding years as freshmen to lead the Raiders through the 1984-85 swimming and diving season. Kelley Brown, a sophomore diver, earned all-America honors as a freshman on the one-meter board and Rick Hayhow, a sophomore business major, was an all-American in the 500-yard freestyle. With possible performances by Rick and Kelley in the 1985 NCAA Championships, WSU hopes to improve upon the teams' 1984 standing.

On page 3: Completion of Wright State's outstanding swimming facility in 1973 marked the beginning of the Raider swimming programs. Completion of the U-shaped, 25-yard by 25-meter pool culminated four years of planning, design, and construction and gives the Raiders one of the best swimming facilities in the area.

Coaching Staff

Jeff Cavana
Head Swim Coach
Third Year

After guiding both the Wright State men's and women's swim teams to Division II Top Twenty finishes for the second year, Jeff Cavana is beginning his third year as the Raider head coach. During Cavana's two years as mentor, Wright State swimmers have brought home 31 all-America certificates in individual events, in addition to five all-America relays.

The men's team has made the greatest strides under Cavana, finishing eleventh in the Division II nationals in 1984 for its best finish ever. The Raiders' previous best finish was the fourteenth-place ranking they received in 1983, Cavana's first year. Sixteen of the 21 Raider school records have been rewritten under Cavana.

In the women's program, Cavana has guided the team through its first years of NCAA competition. The Raider women placed tenth in their first appearance at the NCAA national championships in 1983. Last year, the squad placed nineteenth, holding on to a Top Twenty finish.

Prior to coming to Wright State, Cavana coached both the boys' and girls' teams at Highlands High School in Fort Thomas, Kentucky. In his second year there, Cavana guided the girls' team to a ninth-place finish in the Kentucky state championships, while the boys' team placed tenth.

Cavana competed at the college level at Western Kentucky University where he began his swimming career as a walk-on, but later received grant-in-aid money, starting his sophomore year. Cavana earned four varsity letters for the Hilltoppers, captaining the team his senior year. The former specialist in the backstroke and butterfly helped WKU to a 33-9 record during his four years on the team.

Cavana graduated from Western Kentucky in 1979 with a Bachelor of Science degree in biology.

Alex Braunfeld
Assistant Swim Coach
Fourth Year

A veteran swim coach, Alex Braunfeld brings experience and expertise to the Wright State coaching staff. Now in his fourth year with the Raiders, Braunfeld coached the Chartiers Valley Swim Club for five years prior to coming to Wright State. He also was the assistant coach of the men's and women's teams at the University of Pittsburgh for three years.

Braunfeld has developed a reputation as an excellent stroke technician and he works primarily with the distance swimmers and the sprinters. He has guided Scott Jurs and Rick Hayhow to Penn-Ohio Conference championships and all-America honors in back-to-back years in the 500-yard freestyle.

In addition to his work with the collegiate team, Braunfeld also coaches the Dayton Raiders swim team which competes in United States Swimming (USS) meets. He had two swimmers qualify for the 1984 Olympic trials from his Dayton team.

Braunfeld earned a Bachelor of Science degree in economics from the University of Pittsburgh while swimming for the Panthers. As a collegiate swimmer, he specialized in the distance events, earning three varsity letters. While he was coaching there, he earned a Master of Business Administration degree in accounting.

Randy Ableman
Diving Coach
First Year

A member of the 1980 United States Olympic diving team, Randy Ableman joins the Wright State coaching staff this year in charge of the divers. Ableman qualified for the Olympic team after placing second to Greg Louganis in 10-meter platform diving during the 1980 Olympic trials.

Last year, Ableman coached at several Columbus area high schools and assisted with the Ohio State and Ohio Wesleyan diving squads while training for the 1984 Olympic trials. He placed fifth in the three-meter springboard in his best finish at the trials.

Ableman guided two high school divers to finish among the top four in the state, including a state championship by Delaware's Tiffany Jeisel. Ableman's best year as a competitive diver was 1981 when he was the NCAA Division I champion on the one-meter board and placed third on the three-meter. A four-time all-American for Iowa, Ableman was on the Hawkeye team which broke Indiana's string of 20 consecutive Big Ten Championships.

A two-time Big Ten champion, Ableman received his Bachelor of Science degree in recreation education from the University of Iowa in 1983. The native of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was a two-time state champion for Washington High School.

Men's Team Outlook

"The best ever" is a bold statement, but one that is fitting for the 1984-85 edition of Wright State men's swim team. With several new prospects and a solid nucleus of returnees, the Raiders hope to continue their climb up the Division II national championship ladder. Two years ago the Raiders began the climb under first-year head coach Jeff Cavana. They placed fourteenth at the national championships for their best finish ever. Last year, the climb continued as the Raiders placed eleventh. This year, a top ten finish is the team's preseason goal.

The Raiders should be particularly strong in the freestyle events, led by all-American Rick Hayhow and Scott Jurs. Hayhow, a 1984 national placewinner, will swim the 200- and 500-freestyles. Jurs, who was red-shirted last season, hopes to return to the form which won him all-America honors in 1983.

Also returning are three sophomores, Mike Jacob, Paul Biermann, and Joe Boda, who combined with Hayhow to place ninth in the nation in the 800-free relay, earning all-America honors. In addition, Boda also is the team's top entry in the 100-fly.

Other NCAA qualifiers who are looking to return to the national championships include breaststroker Ralph Clark and backstroker Dan Schutte.

One of the major reasons for the optimism surrounding the 1984-85 team is the addition of several quality swimmers. Leading that list is freshman Scott Troutwine and transfer Steve Hayhow. Troutwine, runner-up at the state meet in 500-free, was highly recruited by several schools including Auburn, Nebraska, and Texas A&M. Hayhow joins his brother on the Raiders after transferring to Wright State from Cincinnati. His strength in the sprinting events will be relied upon at nationals.

Another new Raider swimmer who will add significantly to the team's quality and depth is freshman Tim Jurs. The 1983 Ohio high school state champion in the 100-breaststroke sat out last season to concentrate on his grades and is ready to compete this year. He is strong in the 100- and 200-yard breaststroke events.

Leading the divers is all-American J.R. Geraci. The sophomore did not dive last year after placing twelfth in the NCAA in 1983. The remainder of the men's diving team is a young one under first-year coach Randy Ableman. Freshmen Jeff Landis and Curtis Johnson are the top prospects.

The Raiders have set high goals for the next five years. They want to finish in the top five at the NCAA's within the next three years to build for a run at the NCAA Division II title within five years. With the strength of this year's squad, it appears the Raiders may even be ahead of schedule in reaching those goals.

Women's Team Outlook

After losing five seniors from the 1983-84 squad which placed nineteenth in the NCAA Division II national, third-year head coach Jeff Cavana is left with a young team. Add to that the fact that there are no seniors and only one junior on this year's team and the result is a very young squad.

"We lost two women, Val Staley (22) and Robin Conley (21), who earned more all-America honors than any other athlete in Wright State athletic history," Cavana said. "It will be hard to replace the points those two scored at the NCAA championships. We will be hurting in quantity, but not in quality, this year. We have some outstanding freshmen who could score heavily at nationals."

Leading the list of returnees is junior Eileen Moriarty who earned all-America honors in two events as a freshman. She is the school record-holder in the 200-fly. Also returning is freestyler Kathy Jenkins.

The most promising area of the women's team is diving. All-American Kelley Brown will be joined by team captain Mary Rita Walsh. Brown placed tenth on the one-meter board at nationals last year as a freshman. Walsh returns after earning a pair of varsity letters. They will be joined by freshman recruit Jodi Bitikofer who is a young diver showing improvement almost daily.

Leading the list of newcomers in the swimming events is freshman Maureen O'Malley. A breaststroke and freestyle specialist from Lakewood High School, O'Malley could finish among the finalists in several events at the NAAs. Her best high school time in the 100-breaststroke would have placed her among the top three in Division II last year.

Freshman Barb Hojnacki, who swam with the Dayton Raiders last year under coach Alex Braunfeld, could become a contender to score points at the national meet in several events. She is a backstroke specialist whose best times in the 100- and 200-backstroke would have scored points at the national meet this year.

"We will definitely be a young team," Cavana said. "But we have our sights set on trying to qualify as many women as possible for the NCAA Championships. After qualifying, it will be their goal to add their names to the list of 24 female swimmers who have earned all-America honors while swimming for the Raiders."

Wright State Academics

Under the supervision of Wright State academic adviser Joe Gatton, as well as the swimming and diving coaches, Raider student-athletes are constantly striving for good grades. Although this monitoring system is relatively new to Wright State, it is in concert with the national trend of major universities across the country.

The program includes such activities as a tutorial system, study tables, and personal assistance when required. The goal of the program is to develop a well-rounded student-athlete, placing realistic emphasis on scholarly achievement.
